RECENT PROJECTS

E-Learning System — SDLC

The E-Learning System project follows the SDLC to develop a user-friendly platform that supports online learning. It focuses on delivering an intuitive interface and robust features to enhance the learning experience for both students and instructors.

Library Management System

The Library Management System project, developed in Java, aims to streamline the process of managing library resources. It provides features for cataloging books, tracking loans, and managing user accounts, all through an intuitive interface. The system enhances efficiency by automating key tasks and ensuring accurate records, making it easier for both library staff and users to access and manage books.

MediMind — AI-driven healthcare platform

A comprehensive AI-driven healthcare platform designed to empower users in managing their health. By selecting symptoms, users receive accurate disease predictions and seamless appointment booking options, revolutionizing the way individuals approach healthcare with personalized and efficient solutions.
